Property Description

This is an affordable dream – 320 tropical acres – 129 hectares in paradise featuring 2 kilometers of dramatic river frontage with 12 waterfalls as one boundary. The property which rises in elevation from 800-2500 feet is 35% virgin rainforest for conservation, an eco development or pure enjoyment of nature at it's finest. The remainder could be developed with a dozen or more natural building sites, all with spectacular ocean or mountain vistas, limited only by your own imagination. Alternatively, 4-6 mini farms of 30+ acres with grand ocean views and sections of natural jungle. There is abundant water to create an off the grid community. Access is by 4 wheel drive on a recently constructed quality road. The farm is located in Tres Rios on the southern pacific coast near the gateway to the Osa Peninsula, costa rica's last wilderness. The lower third of the property provides valley and mountain views, the middle section gives ocean views looking west and south across the Terraba river to the Osa Peninsula and Drake Bay.
