Property Description

Motivated Seller offering seller-financing to a qualified buyer over a 15 year term, with 25% down and an acceptable market rate of interest. If you're looking for luxury in Costa Rica's mountainous southern zone, just minutes from the country's highest peaks and most gorgeous coastline, this home offers it all! What's even more, the property, which measures over 2.5 acres, and 6,647 square feet of living space, is adjacent to San Isidro's airport. The airport is slated to undergo a major expansion soon. This could lead to a boon for property values in the area, especially one that is as well positioned as this one. This home could even be developed into a small boutique hotel. The 2.5 acres includes a soccer field which could be easily converted into additional building sites. The potential of this property is through the roof, especially at the extremely attractive price at which it is currently being offered.
